

ADVISED OXIANE GROUP IN ITS SALE TO CLEVER AGE

January 2023

OXIANE is a neo information technology consulting company, a hybrid player between IT development and training. OXIANE's core business is web development and architecture for companies, with the objective of digitising processes and activities. Firmly focused on technological expertise and the "software craftsmanship" movement, the Group is involved in one-off consultancy assignments on a fixed-price basis as well as in project management and technical assistance for its engineering activity.

OXIANE is also a key player in training of web architecture, web development (particularly Java), agile methodologies, DevOps, etc. The Group offers more than 150 training courses, mainly developed in-house and delivered face-to-face or remotely by its consultants.

Capitalising on its dual expertise, OXIANE works with major clients via its four offices in Paris, Nantes, Luxembourg and the Ivory Coast. The Group represents more than 60 employees.
